【解答例 1】

The Coronavirus has changed my life completely. As a member of the baseball club, I was looking forward to the beginning of the new season in January 2020. Our team had done well in the previous year, but we lost in the quarterfinals of the prefectural tournament, so we trained very hard during the winter to win the 2020 tournament. Then, there was an announcement that the national tournament was to be cancelled. We were all devastated that our hard work had been for nothing. For months, even after school was resumed, we were still unmotivated and couldn't find anything else meaningful to do. Sadly we will all graduate without having had a chance to realize our goal. 【解答例 2】

The spread of the Coronavirus has affected me greatly. Before, I did not care much about cleanliness, but now I have started to wash my hands thoroughly after I come home, and I always change my clothes. Also, I was sociable, but now I try my best to avoid contact with people other than my family members, I wear two masks if they are available, and I stopped going to school even before the government declared the state of emergency. A lot of people seem to have gotten used to the situation, and they have become very careless, but I will continue to protect myself until the society acquires herd immunity. I feel like a completely different person now. (119 words)
