I'm sorry to ask this, but would it be all right if I handed in this month's assignment one week after the deadline of September 15? I broke my arm recently and had to be hospitalized. I have done the reading, but typing my answer is taking a long time because I can only use my left hand.

The illustration shows that Africa is bigger than many people think. It is the size of Russia, China, the United States and Europe combined. The graph below it is also surprising. It says, for example, that in 2024 about one percent of African males were aged 60-64, while approximately four percent of males there were aged between 25 and 29. The figures for females were almost the same. This means that Africa is a young continent. If countries there can make good use of their young people's energy, they can grow their economies.
